

Touch of Spring

A Creative Resource Guide

Exploring Spring Through Poetry, Theatre, Art, and Design

1. Poetry & Literature on Spring

- Poetry Foundation - poetryfoundation.org

Search for "spring" to explore classic and contemporary poetry. Look up poems by Mary Oliver, E. E. Cummings, Emily Dickinson, and Gerard Manley Hopkins.

- Academy of American Poets (Poets.org) - poets.org/poems?field_occasion=525

Direct link to spring-themed poems from major American poets.

- The Paris Review - theparisreview.org

Search "spring" in their archive for literary essays, poetry, and interviews with authors reflecting on seasonal themes.

2. Theatre & Plays About Spring

- National Theatre Archive - nationaltheatre.org.uk

Explore archived performances such as "Spring Awakening" by Wedekind and seasonal Shakespeare plays like "The Winter's Tale."

- Digital Theatre+ - digitaltheatreplus.com

Subscription-based service offering plays, essays, and analysis. Search for works exploring spring, youth, and transformation.

3. Visual Art & Design Around Spring

Touch of Spring

A Creative Resource Guide

Exploring Spring Through Poetry, Theatre, Art, and Design

- Google Arts & Culture - artsandculture.google.com

Search "spring" to access galleries, digital exhibits, and classical works like Botticelli's "Primavera" and Monet's floral series.

- The Met Museum Open Access - metmuseum.org/art/collection

Search "spring" for paintings, decorative arts, and textiles celebrating seasonal change.

- MoMA - moma.org

Explore how contemporary artists interpret themes of rebirth, color, and abstract floral design.

4. Articles, Journals & Essays on Spring

- JSTOR Daily - daily.jstor.org

Academic but accessible articles on the metaphorical and symbolic meaning of spring in art, history, and culture.

- Aeon Magazine - aeon.co

Philosophy and nature-focused essays. Look for articles on human connection to nature and seasonal symbolism.

5. Spring in Contemporary Design

- Dezeen - dezeen.com

Explore seasonal design, art installations, and nature-inspired interiors.

- Sight Unseen - sightunseen.com

Contemporary art and object design with an experimental twist. Great for organic material and floral

Touch of Spring

A Creative Resource Guide

Exploring Spring Through Poetry, Theatre, Art, and Design

design research.

6. Bonus: Recommended Books

- "The Hill We Climb" by Amanda Gorman - A hopeful and powerful poetic piece echoing themes of renewal.
- "Devotions" by Mary Oliver - Selected poems with deep reverence for nature and rebirth.
- "Botanicals: Butterflies and Blooms" (Taschen) - A stunning visual reference of botanical illustration.
- "Hilma af Klint: Paintings for the Future" - Abstract floral mysticism rooted in transformation.
- "Seasonal Associate" by Heike Geissler - A literary reflection on capitalism, time, and personal seasons.